To Whom It May Concern,

I, employer of (Fill in your own name),

Approve of his/her participation in the Twenty Ten project. I encourage him/her to fulfill the needs as required by the program. These requirements are:

- participating in a four-to-six-week online training course
- participating in an eight-ten day workshop on site in an African country to be specified
- producing stories for the Twenty Ten project

Authorize permission for him/her to travel to the workshop location and be present there for eight - ten days. (All travel, lodging and catering costs will be covered by the organizers of the Twenty Ten project)

Authorize permission for the use, sale and publication of all productions he/she creates during and after the workshop under the auspices of the Twenty Ten project, until 31 July 2010;

Agree on the use of the following credit line for publication: Name of author / Name of My Publication / for Twenty Ten

Authorize permission for him/her to spend up to four weeks in South Africa during the FIFA World Cup, between 11 June and 11 July 2010, should he/she be selected and invited by the Twenty Ten project

In return for this, I have - as an African media organization - access to the content that he/she will produce by the Twenty Ten project, free of charge. Through this project I also can purchase unique material from over 100 other journalists at www.africamediaonline.com

Subject to their requirements and resources, the organizers will try to ensure thatwill have time to produce stories for my organization during his/her stay in South Africa so that I will also benefit directly from my own special reporter in South Africa.
